Moore Trosper Construction Company Awarded Minority Business Accreditation

Are you looking for a certified Minority Business Enterprise (MBE)? Meet Michigan's newest powerhouse. The Moore Trosper Construction Company has recently achieved their 2011 MBE Certificate and is now affiliated with the Michigan Minority Supplier Development Council (MMSDC). With the new ability to compete for projects alongside other minority businesses, Moore Trosper is a viable contender in the construction industry.

The MMSDC's mission is to certify minority-owned businesses for engagement by corporate members, and now Moore Trosper is primed for this opportunity. The company presidents, Brian and Ted Moore, are enrolled members of the Sault Ste. Marie Tribe of Chippewa Indians with lineage tracing to the St. Ignace and Mackinac Island regions of the Ojibwe/Odawa territory. Moore Trosper Construction Company embraces this heritage and endeavors to incorporate tribal beliefs and values into the company philosophy. Their Native American roots and unmatched expertise in the construction industry make Moore Trosper an excellent partner on any building project.

"We sought out this accreditation to bring more value to our clients and their projects, and we are very proud to have achieved it. We are continually seeking ways to provide exceptional quality and innovation in our ever-changing economic climate," commented Ted Moore, President of the Moore Trosper Construction Company.

With more than three decades of experience, the Moore Trosper Construction Company offers a diverse portfolio of skills and expertise to satisfy the needs of the Native American and general business community. With experience in a wide variety of industries, Moore Trosper specializes in pre-construction services, financing, space planning, turn key building, construction management, general contracting, design and build, renovations and alterations, pre-engineered building and tenant lease space.

If you would like to contact Moore Trosper regarding any minority business projects or opportunities, please visit their website at www.MooreTrosper.com or contact Ted Moore at TMoore@MooreTrosper.com, Brian Moore at BMoore@MooreTrosper.com, or reach them both at 517.694.6310.
