Where Success Begins

To Whom It May Concern:

I am writing this letter to highly-recommend the Moore-Trosper Construction Company. I had the pleasure of working with MTCC throughout the course of our 10.5 million dollar bond project at Michigan Center Schools. Moore Trosper was deeply involved with our project from the moment we began brainstorming. They assisted with facility assessments, helped organize community forums, and they used their expertise to inform us in our decision-making process. Our district passed our bond project by only five votes, and I know MTCC was instrumental in providing information, assistance, persistence, and a quality strategic plan that helped to galvanize our community.

Once construction started our district experienced some difficult transition. Our veteran, savvy superintendent left our district for another job. We worried that his departure would cripple our progress since he was deeply involved in the process, planning, and decision-making in regards to the construction. Fortunately for us, Moore Trosper was on our team. They were patient and informative. They worked diligently to get the new superintendent (me) up to speed. When there were issues, they went out of their way to assure us that they would handle them, and handle them they did. They were also a prominent ally when it came to dealing with problems that arose, and provided shrewd advice that allowed our district to recoup significant amount of money from other firms involved in the project.

It was also very reassuring to us as the project wrapped up to know that we had a commitment from MTCC to be available even after the project were through. MTCC stands behind their promise that "their word is their bond". School construction can be a very impersonal business, but I will always recall fondly how Ted, Brian, Dave, Bruce, Dana, Tom, Tony, Heather, and the entire team felt like family. It is without hesitation that I give the Moore Trosper Construction Company my highest recommendation, and I look forward to working with them again sometime soon.

Sincerely and with Great Respect,

Brady Cook, Superintendent
